Program Level Student Learning Outcomes:

1. Use information of crime scene management and investigation, forensics analysis and information technology to conduct rudimentary criminal investigations.
2. Utilizing current demographic data on incarcerated persons, identify how race factors into current penal system models and the need for restorative justice models to be implemented.
3. Articulate the differences between the major criminological theories of the causes of crime and how those theories relate to policies toward crime and criminal behavior.
4. Describe the scope of responsibilities of the various local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies beginning with arrest through parole and re-entry.
5. Identify changes in the criminal justice system to deal with different populations: elderly, juveniles, transgender persons, and people with different abilities.

Career Opportunities in ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE

Completing the baccalaureate degree or graduate level work can lead to a variety of opportunities. An administration of justice degree is not limited to law enforcement. Administration of justice degree graduates can work in state law enforcement agencies. Examples of these agencies are crime laboratories, state crime commissions, narcotics bureaus and liquor control boards. Criminal justice degree graduates can also work in federal law enforcement divisions. These include the different Departments of Defense, Homeland Security, FBI, Veterans Affairs, Office of the Inspector General and Food and Drug Administration. They also have the option to work in private sectors such as detective agencies, insurance companies, safety officer units and security patrol.
